1 POLICY

1. This policy outlines criteria under which CMCC will consider an employer need and/or employee request to work from home.
2. Working from home is not a universal privilege, and work from home permissions will consider impacts on CMCC operational needs when evaluating arrangements on a case by case basis.
2. An employee's ability to complete day-to-day functions, including communicating with colleagues, students, management, customers, patients etc. is not to be negatively affected by working from home.
3. An agreement for an employee to work from home does not alter or replace the terms of an existing employment contract, including hours of work and method/amount of payment.
4. Employees are to continue to comply with all CMCC rules, policies, practices, and instructions that would apply if the employee were working at CMCC facilities.
5. During Public Health emergencies, governments may mandate closures thus requiring employees to work from home. CMCC recognizes that in these situations, not all employees will be able to continue in their full capacity or complete all day-to-day tasks.
6. In the event that CMCC determines a position is no longer required to work on site, protocols will be developed to accommodate this change in employment conditions

6 DEFINITIONS

Ergonomic Assessment is an assessment that helps identify risks such as repetitive tasks that can cause strains, improper work area setup, and improper use of tools, which can result in the development of work-related musculoskeletal disorders.

Working from Home is when an employee on a given day or for a temporary period works from home instead of regularly reporting to a physical place of business.

Workplace is any land, premises, location or thing at, upon, in or near which a worker works. The workplace does not end when the worker leaves the physical space. The workplace extends to the online world.

7 PROCEDURES

The success of this policy will depend on the consideration and full cooperation of CMCC employees. All employees share in the responsibility for adhering to and enforcing this policy.

1. Employees who wish to work from home are to receive pre-approval which will be reviewed regularly by the employee's supervisor.
 - a. All requests to work from home are to be submitted in writing to the employee's supervisor and are to be either approved or denied at the discretion of the employees' manager.
 - b. If approved, a letter of understanding will be developed prior to the commencement of any ongoing work from home arrangement.

- c. All changes in employment conditions must follow normal documentation processes through formal requisition forms. All letters will be developed by Human Resources and signed documents will be submitted into the employee's file.
 - d. If at any time the arrangement no longer meets CMCC operational needs or productivity goals & objectives, CMCC reserves the right to revoke an approved work from home agreement.
 - e. Occasional need to work from home, that is not an ongoing change to an employee's schedule, is to be communicated in writing and approved by the supervisor, however will not necessitate formal paperwork from Human Resources.
2. Government mandated closures will be upheld by CMCC with all employees required to work from home, except those determined to be necessary on site. No advance approval or formal paperwork from Human Resources is required in these instances.
 3. Employees working remotely are to stay updated on department and work events, keep supervisors informed on the progress of assignments and reach out for support when needed. If an employee's presence is required for a meeting at the worksite, reasonable notice is to be provided.
 4. Approved work-related expenses accrued while working from home are to be reimbursed via submission of expense receipts. Expenses are to be reviewed, approved and processed as per normal procedures.
 5. Work hours, compensation, and leave scheduling are to continue to conform to applicable policies and agreements. Requests to work overtime or use leave time are to be approved by the employee's supervisor in the usual manner.
 6. Hourly employees are to continue to submit completed timesheets for hours worked. An employee found to have made false reports on their timesheets may be subject to discipline up to and including termination.
 7. Any change to the work from home agreement will be implemented after reasonable notice has been provided to the employee. As working from home is not a universal privilege, an agreement to work from home can be withdrawn as required by CMCC and reasonable notice will be provided.

Use of CMCC Property and Resources While Working at Home

1. Employees are responsible for providing their own adequate workspace and furnishings while working from home and to ensure that policies such as confidentiality and privacy are adhered to.

Employees are to receive reasonable notice to make any arrangements necessary to return the CMCC property to the worksite. Failure to do so may result in discipline or legal action.

Health and Safety While Working from Home

1. CMCC is committed to assisting employees in making their remote worksite safe and ergonomic.
2. The Division of Clinical Education offers virtual ergonomic assessments to help identify different types of stress on the body that can cause pain and/or discomfort.
